General News

The annual convention of the Northern Alberta Teachers' Association will be held this year in the Separate school, Edmonton, on November 9th and 10th. Dr.
Murray of Saskatchewan University will give two addresses. Several new features are being introduced to make the meeting of practical assistance to teachers. The teachers of this district have the right to attend this convention.

That there may be a great shortage of seed wheat this year, and that Southern Alberta will have the great bulk of it nearly all of the wheat of that quality of Canada,
was the opinion expressed by C.
Rice-Jones, president of the Alberta
Farmers' Co-operative Elevator
Company, on Friday morning.
Mr. Rice-Jones said further that there could not be too much publicly given at this time to the importance of the farmers getting their seed grain before the bulk of the No. 1 and No. 2 Northern was shipped out of the province.

"I've been reading an article on electricity, John," said the wife as she laid down a copy of a technical magazine which she had been perusing. "And it appears before long we'll be able to get pretty nearly everything we want just by touching a button."

"It will never be here," growled
the husband. "You would never be able to get anything in that way."

"Why not, John?"

"Because nothing on earth would ever make you touch a button.
Look at this shirt!"

MANY IN WETASKIWIN TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many Wetaskiwin people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple hushers bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ka. This simple, remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, removing such surprising foet matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few drops often relieve chronic appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT action of Adler-ka is astonishing. T. P. Ball, druggist.

What are Peps

Peps are the new treatment for coughs, colds and lung troubles.
They are little tablets made up from Pine extracts and medicinal essences. When put into the mouth these medicinal ingredients turn into healing vapors, which are breathed down direct to the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes. The Peps treatment is direct. Swallowing cough mixtures into the stomach, to care ailments and disorders in throat and lungs, is indirect. Peps are revolutionizing the treatment of colds, as their price is within the reach of all.

WESTERN PRODUCTS

WIN GOLD MEDAL

Westerners will learn with interest that a gold medal was awarded to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the excellence of its exhibit at the Quebec Exhibition a few weeks ago. The gold medal was for the collective grain display, which was gathered in Western Canada, and was representative of the various grain crops of the western provinces. The daily attendance at the Quebec Exhibition ran as high as seventy-five thousand and a very great interest in the agricultural possibilities of western Canada was shown by the visitors.

It is good news when you learn that you can buy the article you need at a little less than you have thought it necessary to pay. The store ads nearly always bring you news of that sort.

Nearly Lost Little Girl from DYSENTERY

She Was Cured By Using
DR. FOWLER'S
Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Dysentery manifests itself with varying degrees of intensity, but in well marked cases the attack is commonly preceded by loss of appetite, and some amount of diarrhoea, which gradually increases in severity, and is accompanied with griping pains in the abdomen. The discharges from the bowels succeed each other with great frequency, and the matter passed from the bowels, which at first resemble those of ordinary diarrhoea, soon change their character, becoming scanty, mucous or slimy, and subsequently mixed with or consisting wholly of blood.

Never neglect what at first appears to be a slight attack of diarrhoea or dysentery, may set in. Cure the first symptoms by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Mrs. John Peterson, Radville, S.D., writes: "I cannot speak too highly for
Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.
I nearly lost my little girl, three years old, to this disease. I took her to the doctor, and he told me her temperature was 101, and forbid me taking her out to our home, six miles from town, but I was forced to go on account of leaving my small baby home. We managed to get her home, but the fever did not go any lower,
and we thought we would lose her,
as she was so ill with dysentery she even passed blood. A neighbor came in and brought Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and told me to give her a few drops. This we did, and the next day she took a change for the better, but it was quite a time before she was entirely well. I do believe if it had not been for Dr. Fowler's, my little one would have died."

The genuine "Dr. Fowler's" is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price, 35 cents.

School of Agriculture

Many have heard of the work that is being done at the School of Agriculture in Alberta. The three schools operating at Vermilion, Olds and Clareholm, respectively, opened their doors to the public in the fall of 1913.
At each place the schools are located on the demonstration farms and they work in conjunction with the latter,
in uplifting agricultural pursuits.

The Vermilion school is at the disposal of the farmers residing in districts north of, and those served, by the C. P. R. line running east from Wetaskiwin. Each of the other schools have their allotted districts of the province to serve.

In the Agricultural course, practical subjects are taken up; subjects such as judging, feeding and care of live stock, handling of soils and crops,
courses in carpentry, blacksmithing,
poultry, dairying, veterinary science,
horticulture, road seed identification and eradication, and elementary courses in English, mathematics, bookkeeping, chemistry and physics, com-stitute the major part of the curriculum.

The home-makers course is also very practical. It is intended to make the women who take it efficient home makers. It includes some theory and a great deal of practice in sewing, cooking, home nursing, home administration, laundrying, bookkeeping, sanitation, dairying, poultry, horticulture, field husbandry, and a thorough elementary course in English, mathematics and the sciences as applied to the home.

THE SONG OF THE LAZY

FARMER WHEN IT'S HOT

You ought to see my neighbor boy
to get his third alfalfa crop inside
the barn before it rains and spoils the stuff for all his pains. Before he goes his corn all in, that fellow started to begin to get the first crop stowed away; he spends his life making hay.
Before he got his corn laid by the second crop was most knee-high,
he had to pitch hay in the sun before he got his corn plowing done.
Now that it's fall and time to rest,
he's got a third crop of that pest,
he'll burn his neck and strain it's back to get the blamed stuff in the stack.

I've got a better scheme, by gee,
I sit and rest, beneath the tree, when it's a hundred miles in the shade, the work of making me afraid. My grass is all burned up now, there ain't no clover in the mow, the cows are leaving for some grass, and Jane Mirandy says "Alas, if this keeps on those cows will fall to wet the bottom of the pail." A thing like that don't worry me, the milking's easier by gee! The less they give, the better 'tis, for its too hot to milk, gee!
I would work away at a d
ward for all the milk that neighbor gives by feeding his alfalfa hay, or cutting fodder day for day. I'll never labor like that man; I'd rather sit and smoke and fain!

YEARS AGO

Jacques Cartier, the famous discoverer, used the crude essences of roots and herbs to cure a skin disease which broke out amongst his crew.

110-DAY

his descendant, Mr. J. Cartier of 7113 Clarke Street, Montreal, has been cured of eczema by essences of roots and herbs. These, however, instead of being crude as used by his ancestor, were prepared for modern use and put up in the form of Zam-Buk. Mr. Cartier, who is Justice of the Peace and Assistant Clerk of the Circuit Court of Montreal, says there is nothing that can compare with Zam-Buk for the treatment of skin diseases. He goes on:

"Allow me to express to you my gratitude for the benefit I derived from the use of Zam-Buk. It is the best remedy obtainable for eczema. I always use it in the house or on my family doctor. Its healing and curative power is immense. I have no objection to your publishing my letter, as I wish everyone to know the high quality of Zam-Buk." Zam-Buk is best, not only for eczema, but also for ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, old wounds, blood-poisoning, boils, piles, burns, scalds, cuts and all skin in-juries. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

Send this coupon, full name of paper and stamp (for return postage) to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and free trial box will be sent you.

BUBBLING WITH OPTIMISM

Baron Shaughnessy Strikes Hopeful Note

but we have all learned a lesson." Lord Shaughnessy, who has been evidence on his banking friends would bear him out, of decided improvement in trade conditions on the Pacific coast. The lumber industry beyond doubt is much brist than it has been for a considerable time, the mining is in a very prosperous condition indeed. The works that the company has performed in Vancouver and its environs involved a vast expenditure of money. It is true that he has a substantial return for the townsite that became the property of the company at the time Vancouver was established, but every dollar received from that townsite and many millions more have been expended within the boundaries of the city. (Applause.)

It is not the time to undertake many improvements, not a time to take anything in hand or to do anything in the nature of improvements of important works, but it is clear to me that for the future requirements of the city it will be necessary to spend a very large sum on money in providing additional space for which steps have already been taken. The port in its present state of development would be a source of surprise to almost any person who had not followed the history of Vancouver. When the first survey came here in 1859, we hoped to secure traffic enough to feed these three Empresses on the east-bound voyage. Today we have tonnage beyond the facilities that have been provided at a cost of millions of dollars and we can see that we have in the future a very substantial increase in that tonnage. The Oriental traffic which was divided with a number of lines in which our country made a great inroad can be seen to be a substantial degree of success and arrangements have been made with the Russian authorities that will insure a very large increase in the tonnage for Vladivostok passing through the port of "Vancouver." (Applause.)

Lord Shaughnessy then referred to what had been done by the company in the development of the mining industry in the province, when the consolidation of the mines was a long time ago. He also made a brief reference to the opening of the Kettle Valley Railway and said that it was now nearer the coast of Brit. Speaking with regard to the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, acquired by the company some years ago, he said that had been extended and facilities were now being provided for a very largely increased territory. With the return of better times, and when conditions were more favorable, no doubt extensions would be made "without any demand on the exchequer of the province." (Laughter.)

"We must try to determine," said Lord Shaughnessy, "what our policy is going to be in the future. I speak for the policy of all of us who are in the business in the future progress of the Dominion. At the moment we have one working thing that whatever it is, it is the fact that we are, conserving our resources, avoiding unnecessary expenditure until we are sure that it is better. I conclude that our success is going to be dependent entirely on our own efforts and that any assistance we get from other causes must be considered extraneous and not essential. We must make up our minds that we are going to be equal to any country in the world, that of our ability to do things here. I have no question, there will be no doubt as to the position of Canada in the future. I have not a doubt that there are in this room many young men who will see this country with a more than ordinary interest, and even larger figures might not be excessive if we perform our duty as well as we can." (Applause.)

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Lord Shaughnessy on the motion of Mayor McEachern, seconded by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper.

BARON SHAUGHNESSY

W. E. B. IN SHAUGHNESSY, Baron Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave a most interesting address lasting almost half an hour to the members of the Vancouver Board of Trade. During his remarks, which were listened to by several hundred members, he referred to the history of the Board of Trade as well as by prominent business men not connected with the board. Lord Shaughnessy briefly referred to what his company had done for Vancouver and the history of the city. He also referred to the position of the city of Vancouver as well as by prominent business men not connected with the board. Lord Shaughnessy briefly referred to what his company had done for Vancouver and the history of the city. He also referred to the position of the city of Vancouver as well as by prominent business men not connected with the board.

"When you look around," he said, "and see the changes that have taken place at the point, you feel no doubt as we all feel that we are all entitled to a great deal of credit for the present conditions here. You have your splendid wharves, your large ocean-going tonnage, your magnificent streets and residential section, your splendid business blocks, and if I might be permitted to say it, probably the finest hotel on the continent." (Applause.)

"I think, too, that you will admit whatever little differences we may have had from time to time that, during all these years your long partner, the C.P.R., has neither been nearly so narrow, I think, as that if our friends and neighbors across the gulf in the older city of Victoria, where at present business is not as brisk as it might be, a situation that we are experiencing in many localities on the continent, but I think that Victoria, which has made such marked progress and has been so exceedingly prosperous in recent years, will also bear testimony to the earnestness with which your partner assisted in forwarding all their good works."

"The policy of the Company in Victoria and at other points served by the company's lines has been one of creation and improvement. Some things probably we have overstepped the mark and have anticipated the future, but we did it with an implicit confidence and there was only a little while to wait when everything would grow to what we had been providing for in Vancouver as elsewhere. The fact that four years have been years of depression in business, not in Vancouver alone but throughout the country. Probably this may be attributed to a degree of over-confidence and no doubt to some extent to over speculation, forwarding very liberal and com-

THE JEWS OF LONDON

THE YIDDISH QUARTER IS HOME OF A RACE APART.

The Wealthy Hebrew Soon Enters Into English Ways, But the Everyday Inhabitant of the Ghetto Does All His Chattering on the Streets and Lives a Primitive Mental Sort of Existence.

The London Ghetto is a world of its own. If you would know how Jews work and play, and pray and read and drink, marry and rear children—dozens of children—it is in the near East, between Aldgate and Stepney, Roman Street and Brick Lane you must wander. Hereabouts live the real (weekend) Jews in Malda Vale and Park Lane and Piccadilly there are but the simulacra.

The Jews do not yet learn to be both a good Jew and a man of substance, with a stake in the country, all at once, though the Jew of Park Lane and him of Petticoat Lane have a connecting link in their common physiognomy and their common language, for Yiddish still remains a "lingua franca" among all Jews. However, wealthy and exalted his station, every Jew understands the meaning, though he may have lost the wit to practice Jewish "chime."

Wentworth street, running from Midland street to Commercial street, is the shopping centre of the district. Here will be found such delicacies as pickled herrings and Dutch pickled cucumbers, olives, "dressed mussels," and the inevitable stacks of cold fried fish. The Ghetto thrives mainly on provisions; as lemon, as lemon, every "Greener" who can find no immediate trade starts life by selling "vine lemon" at a penny in the Lane.

There is nothing depressing, externally, at all about the Ghetto. The main thoroughfares, Whitechapel, Mile End road, Commercial road, are fine broad avenues, some flanked with trees, and even the narrow of streets are gayest than most poor districts, because poor Jews delight in the outdoor life. Like all simple, primitive people, the Jews exalt their daily provisioning and work in so far as the modern factory system permits it into a sort of festival. There is no futility in telephoning to your fishmonger to send the best salmon in the shop.

But the Jewish matron, with three-pence to spend on a piece of hake or haddock, can pass from one barrow to another probing with skilled finger the freshness of the article, chaffing with the vendor about the price and quality of his wares. You will see her in Wentworth street wringing her eyebrows with scorn when fish is laid and dear, her pupils dilating in joy when she gets a bargain.

By going into the open market you can one day bring home little occasional Russian rolls, or a loaf with its twist and poppy seeds, or rye-bread, or sweet-bread, as the fancy takes you. This a pleasant two hours; whilst you have had gossip with your neighbors you have got the best of a hardened counter and you have provided a jolly good dinner for the children returning home from school.

As soon as the air gets a little warmer in this rather damp country, at nearly every door an old lady, her days for marketing over, will be found seated on the step, blinking in the sun, holding the skirts of her young grandchild and shrieking to those a year or so older to come to the ways. Whenever possible the Jew prays to transact his business in the street, not only in the Ghetto, but you see him buying and selling, haggling, talking and gesticulating on the pavement, he carries his "rak," to the higher life of a diamond merchant in Hatton Garden or a broker in Throgmorton street.

The standing anecdote to the orthodox, fresh from Russia, is the palatial building in Midland street, established in 1869 in Devonshire square to give relief to the "strange poor" by the granting of loans.

The board has now an income of over $80,000; its activities are split up into a large number of committees; there are loan committees and distress committees, apprenticeship committees, sanitary committees, and yet to the poor Jew it is as heartrending to apply to "The Board" for help as it is to disclose an appeal to the workhouse.

Not that the poor Jew has any silly scruples about accepting money from richer people. That he confidently regards as their business; the Jewish beggar, the "Schmorrer," is an institution, as readers of Mr. Zangwill's books will know.

The following anecdote is a typical instance of the combined wit and impudence of the Jewish beggar; a Schmorrer demanded of a rich Jew the money for a visit to Oxford, the doctor having told him that his teeth would do him good. The wealthy man rather demurred. (Oxford was an expensive place; could not he go somewhere a little cheaper?) "Sir," replied the Schmorrer with dignity, "where my health is concerned I never concern the expense."

The Jew does not understand class distinction; one man is rich and another is poor, and has an undivided right to wealth does not give a man a better understanding of the Talmud or a bolder heart. The poor Jew expects the rich one to out-beg and more—and his wife and children to have her clothes, jewels—let's say a sable and proper way to spend the money.

But at "the Board" the poor Jew is made to feel that he is of another class. Fresh from Russia, freeless, suffering, he begs at the Board in the name of God for meat, a T. secour. He is repulsed by a gorgeously uniformed porter, and told that an application must be made. Visitors came to investigate his case. Does the man deserve charity? Are the children hung—enough the man ask enough?

A BIT OF HUMAN NATURE

Now a "Heart Throb Specialist" Get Her First Job.

In the Woman's House Companion appears a confession of a "heart throb specialist"—a newspaper woman who after many failures made a success in New York. Following is her own story of her first success.

"I had dropped into a criminal courtroom principally to escape the heat of the street. A young girl was being tried for attempted suicide. Perhaps because my own failure looked so dark I could read real drama between the talling lines of her testimony.

"Here was an old story to the reporters. I knew they would turn in brief items, bare facts. I talked about the girl with the probation officer assigned to the case, with the girl, with her employers, and I secured photographs, including one of the corner where she tried to end it all, a cubbyhole like the like my own. Then I wrote as if her story were mine.

"With the power born of desperation I found my way into the presence of a Sunday editor who had spoken a few kind words to me. I begged him to read my story while the girl's case was still in the public eye.

"For a wonder he did read it while I sat beside him. When he finished he touched several buttons, and men fairly tumbled into the room.

"After giving them orders he seemed to recall my existence. He turned and stared at me over his glasses.

"Let's see. You've been in here before, haven't you?"

"Yes. I brought you a letter from Mr. Blank of the—New York."

"Thank! A story like that is worth thirty letters of introduction. Confound nuisance letters are. Don't believe in 'em. Sold much stuff?"

"Nothing unless you have bought that story."

"His eyes twinkled. "Oh, I've bought it all right. I forgot to mention we pay $50 for a story like that with the pictures. I suppose that is all right?"

"All right?"

"I closed my eyes. I saw a clean hall room, with a real window ledge over which I could look out upon a quiet garden. I saw a telegraph operator clicking off a message to an anxious mother. And I tasted beefsteak—thick, juicy, rare!

"When I opened my eyes once more the Sunday editor was at the door. He hung his order over his shoulder:

"Wait till I come back."

"A few minutes he was seated beside me again, and I could hardly believe my ears. He was offering me a position on the staff!"

Expatriated by Mal de Mer. There is tragedy in the attempt made to solve the problem of seasickness by the late Mr. William Louis Winnie, the millionaire, who was an involuntary exile from England for the last twenty-seven years of his life. He was at heart an American citizen, but his doctors warned him that a voyage across the Atlantic, with the probability of seasickness, would be fatal to him. So he devoted the rest of his life to designing a vessel in which he could safely travel to America. But the ship was against him, and he never left his native land.

A Tying Death Dealer. A most disgusting death is caused by an insect half the size of a pea—a small black spider. It lives in Peru, in South America. This spider's venom sores upon the blood vessels and spreads through all the tissues, causing the most fearful agony a human being can have to bear. The worst of it is that the victim lives at least two days, enduring unthinkable anguish the while.

A Proper End. Elizabeth was first to hear grand opera for the first time. Her scandalous behavior before this occasion had been confined chiefly to park concerts, where she knew the proper observances.

The performance was a matinee of "Koenigsrinder." It was ended, and mamma rose to go.

"To that the end?" asked Elizabeth. "Yes, dear," answered mamma.

"Sit down, mamma, please," said Elizabeth. "It can't be. They haven't played 'America' yet!"—New York Post.

Great Vermontish Rows. The rows of Great Vermont are worth seeing. There are 100 rows altogether—narrow thoroughfares which connect the main streets, with houses on each side. They are from three to six feet wide. Special carts have to be built to traverse these rows—London Mail.

Penetrating a Disguise. "What are you doing in this stack of costume plates and reference books?" asked the old time friend.

"Merely satisfying an idle curiosity," replied Mr. Umurok. "I'm trying to find out who I was in my 'oldest costume ball.'—Washington Star.

Almost an Insult. Press Agent—Miss De Star, you're going to work up a story that your pet Pomeranian poodle swallowed all your diamonds. Miss De Star—Why, sir, do you think I was a very 'oldest costume ball.'—Washington Star.

Heart Palpitated

Would Have to Sit Up in Bed. FELT AS IF SMOTHERING.

Mrs. Francis Madors, Alma, P.E.I., writes: "My heart was in such a bad condition I could not stand any excitement, and at times when I would be talking my heart would palpitate so that I would feel like fainting. At night, when I would go to bed and be lying down for a while, I would have to sit up for ten or fifteen minutes, as I would feel as though I was smothering. I read in the daily paper of a lady who had been in the same condition as I was, and was cured by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I bought a box, and they did me so much good, my husband got another, and before I had used half of the second box I was completely cured. I feel as though I can never get enough in favor of your Heart and Nerve Pills."

STUDY YOUR HEALTH.

A Mushroom Can Live in a Cellar, but Don't Be a Mushroom.

In the only leading Magazine William Johnston says that it is probably your own fault if you are at the time catching colds or having indigestion or headache. He goes on to say:

"Nature intends every human being to be strong and well. Most disease is either ignorance or carelessness. Bacteria—even the bacteria of decay, germs, incompetent parents—are given a pretty good start by nature. If children get sickly it is nearly always the fault of the parents taking care of them. If they grow up they remain unhealthy it is largely their own fault."

"But, you protest, 'I can't help it if I inherit a weak stomach.' Oh, yes, you can."

"Did you ever systematically study your stomach? If you were going to be a lawyer you would study law. If you were going to be a stenographer you would study shorthand. If you are going to be healthy study health."

"Most people know more about the care of their clothes than they do about the care of their health. Study your diet. Find out what the effects of the various foods are. Ask yourself if you are getting enough exercise. Keep tabs until you find what it is that disagrees with you. Leave strictly alone the food—and the drinks—that your stomach sends you about."

"Make up your mind to be healthy. Go to the three best doctors, the three that nature has provided free for everybody—fresh air, fresh water and sunlight. Get as much of all three whenever you can."

"A mushroom can live in a cellar, but don't be a mushroom. 'If you eat right, drink lots of water, sleep in fresh air and get out in the sun, you'll soon forget to be sick.' And perfect health is a long stride toward perfect happiness."

RESTING A RAZOR.

Why Letting It Lie Idle For Awhile Improves the Blade.

It is well known that our metals are conductors of electricity. Steel is an excellent conductor, and when this metal is fashioned into tools with sharp edges the electric current that is continually passing through the metal will leave the body at the sharp point or edge.

Barbers tell us the razor gets tired and is improved after a rest. This is true in a scientific sense. It is not exactly a rest that the razor needs, although the term will express it pretty well.

It seems that any razor, after constant use on the human face, will become not exactly dull, but the razor can sharpen it, but rather sluggish and refuse to work as smoothly as when it has lain for a few weeks without work.

Constant use and continued sharpening put the molecules into a sluggish condition and it is impossible to get the same edge as when the steel has not been used for some time.

When the razor lies idle and the electric current is pulled off at the edge the particles are being toned and tempered, and the edge actually becomes sharper. Just the thing for a razor. For price write M. Marker, Box 2074, Calgary. 6-4fs

BABOONS AT HOME.

A Study of the Animals in Their Wild State in Africa.

We can only learn the nature and disposition of an animal like the baboon from a study of its behavior in a wild state. Few persons ever have a chance for such study, and accordingly an intelligently observed account of the animal's actions becomes of interest. The author of "Animal Life in Africa," Major J. Stevenson-Hamilton, furnishes the following results of his personal investigations:

"It is most interesting and instructive to watch, from some concealed position, the social life of a troop of baboons who fancy themselves to be unobserved. Perched about at intervals among the rocks are some of the older males, evidently on the lookout for danger. Behind them walk and stand a heterogeneous mass of females and of young animals. The females employ themselves in various family tasks, and the youngsters, playing and squabbling, chase one another around to a shrill accompaniment of chattering screams."

Possibly two of the latter, in the course of a rough and tumble, hostile against one of the older males. Immediately the latter's attitude of dignified quietness vanishes, and he turns with a roar upon the imprudent juveniles, who hastily retreat with shrieks of fear. Now and then a mother finds it necessary to chastise her offspring or to wreak vengeance upon one or another of the untutored bubbleheads who, she guesses, will sooner or later injure or injure it. The air resounds with squeals, shrill cries and occasional hiss grunts.

Sometimes one of the grunts comes a single deep, hoarse bark, and instantly there is silence. The females cease their young offspring; the rest of the band, with one accord, look out right and left, and in a moment there is nothing to be seen except one or two of the larger males, who are quietly off, now and then stopping to glance back and to utter their resonant warning bark.

If you quietly forward and climb to some colon of vantage you will perhaps be in time to see the whole band scampering off. The infants cling to their mothers' backs, the untutored juveniles race ahead, and the three or four fathers of families bring up the rear in a more deliberate pace.

LISTER'S BOLD EXPERIMENT.

He Used His First Draining Tube on Queen Victoria.

A strange anecdote is related in the life of Lord Lister by Dr. G. T. Vreuch. It seems that Lister actually used Queen Victoria as the first subject of one of his great experiments. Shortly after taking up the chair of surgery in Edinburgh, according to Dr. Vreuch, Lister was called to the Balmoral to operate on the queen for an abscess. Dr. Vreuch goes on to say: "The operation was successful. Lister put in a strip of carbolic lint to keep the wound open for drainage. But, unfortunately, the matter of the abscess did not come away properly, and the queen was still feverish and in pain."

"Lister, disturbed by this unfavorable course, walked alone in the grounds of Balmoral, a lonely walk being his custom when he had a difficult problem to solve. During his cogitations it occurred to him that a piece of India rubber tubing might form an excellent part of exit to the discharge of a wound. It is illustrative of Lister's boldness that, though his patient was the highest lady in the land, he did not hesitate to make her the first subject of his experiment."

"He returned from his walk, cut a piece of tubing from the spray apparatus and sealed it all night in carbolic. In the morning he made use of it."

"The queen made a rapid and complete recovery. Lister, confirmed by his royal experiment, adopted rubber drainage tubes as a part of his practice."

Knew His Patient. "My advice to you, sir," said the physician as he diagnosed the case of the dyspeptic, "is to change your habit. Go over to the Derrindale and live for awhile."

Onion Corn Remedy. Here is a very simple remedy for corns, but one which is ordinarily most effective. Peel off the strong outer skin of an onion until it is quite tender, and then bind it on to the toe with a linen bandage while still warm. For fresh applications see next page.

Causes For His Love. "Did you ever really love any girl before you met me?" asked the beautiful one.

"No," replied the little foreigner; "you are the first girl I have ever known who had money in her own right."—Judge.

Unless the stomach is kept in good shape your food will not digest properly but will cause a rising and souring of food, a feeling of nausea in the stomach, pain in the stomach or a feeling as if a heavy weight were lying there.

Burdock Blood Bitters cannot be surpassed as a cure for dyspepsia and all its allied troubles. Mr. James R. Burns, Balmoral, N.S., writes: "About two years ago I was badly troubled with dyspepsia, and could not get any relief. I tried most everything, not even the doctors seeming to do me any good. One day a friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, as he had seen it advertised. I did so, and by the time the first bottle was gone I felt better, and after taking three bottles I was completely cured. I highly recommend it to all sufferers from dyspepsia."

Belgian Relief

This week, Rev. G. Van Damme, a Belgian priest who is touring Western Canada on behalf of the sufferers of his poverty-stricken country, arrived in the city this week. Having gone through numerous sad experiences, he is in a position to describe the harrowing scenes of which Belgium was the centre from the beginning of this iniquitous war. 1,500,000 of his fellow countrymen are depending entirely on charity for their daily sustenance. For the purpose of relieving those unfortunate people, Cardinal Mercier sent him to this part of the world. Arrangements are being made for an illustrated lecture to be given in the nearest future, concerning which full particulars will be given in the next issue of this paper.

Unique Guessing Contest

The Banner Store has inaugurated a very interesting guessing contest for the children of Wetaskiwin to begin on Monday of next week.

Each week a new doll will be placed in the window and given a name. Every customer trading at the store during the week will be entitled to one guess as to the name chosen for the doll for each dollar of their purchase. These guesses will be filed and on Monday morning following the doll will be awarded to the child who has filed the first correct guess.

Each week a new doll will be on exhibition and the con-est will end with Xmas week when the Banner has secured and will put on exhibition a big, life-sized, baby doll.

All the dolls are beauties and when the children see them they will all want one and will insist that their parents spend their money from now on until Christmas at this up-to-date store.

For the first week, commencing October 23rd, a name of a child attending the kindergarten at the Alexandra School will be chosen.

Recruiting Meeting

La. Col. O.G. Williams who was 18 years with the British Navy and served under Admiral Beatty will be in Wetaskiwin on October 26th and give an address in which he will explain the new registration plan. He is a speaker of great force and his address is on the highest lines of patriotism. He will be accompanied by Major the Rev. C.W. Kirby D.D., the chief recruiting officer for Alberta.

The "Win One" Bible class are pitting against the teacher next Sunday in a debate-Resolved - "That he should not try to persuade others to be Christians." The affirmative to be taken by the teacher and the negative by the class. A business meeting of the class was held at the home of Mrs. Chandler Wednesday afternoon when re-election of officers and matters pertaining to the winter work were discussed.

The Indians are wrong when they say that the muskrats are not building big houses this year and thereby predict a mild winter. One man told us that in every slough where he had occasion to observe the muskrats were building great big houses and were evidently preparing for a good long cold spell.

"Viking News."
Our general Government bridge foreman Mr. S. J. Youngberg has just completed a good strong pile bridge over Pipestone Creek between the two and three 47244 just north of Mr. Lahl's place. This bridge is to take place of the old trestle bridge which he has now pulled down as it was getting unsafe for the travelling public. Mr. Youngberg is a good, strict and practical man. Just the right man for such work as he seems to take pride in doing a good, neat and substantial work, and nothing is too good for him.

A Sluggish Liver
CAUSES LOTS
OF TROUBLE.

Unless the liver is working properly you may look forward to a great many troubles arising, such as constipation, severe headaches, bilious headaches, sick headaches, jaundice, sick stomach, etc.

Mrs. J. Shellsworth, 227 Albemarle St., Halifax, N.S., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you concerning the great value I have received by using your Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but after using a couple of vials of your pills I have not been bothered with the headaches any more."

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are, without a doubt, the best liver regulator on the market to-day. Twenty-five years of a reputation should surely prove this.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are 50 cents per vial, 5 vials for $1.00; for sale at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STOVEPIPE AND CHIMNEY FIRES

With the approach of cooler weather, stoves and fireplace will soon be put into commission. Before this is done care should be taken to see that chimneys and stovepipes are in good repair, thoroughly cleaned and rendered safe from fire. Owing to the dampness of the early summer, many stovepipes will be found badly rusted, which an outer coating of enamel will not expose. Examine these carefully and replace defective pieces. Fire prevention is one of the first considerations of the household.
